If your answer to any of these questions is “YES,” then join us for a . . .

- Can you imagine public transportation in our community that is fair and equitable?
- Are you willing to enter into discussion about:
 - Your own experience of transportation in your day-to-day life; and
 - The tension between our power and how we can affect key decision makers?
- Are you willing to be part of a collective story-telling action in order to transform our community?
